Upon the consent of counsel for the defendants, and as set forth in the government's oral application earlier today in open court, the government hereby moves the Court to modify the stipulation and order pertaining to unclassified discovery materials (the "Unclassified Protective Order"), which was signed by the parties on November 26, 2012, such that the government, in its sole discretion, may identify certain discovery materials for disclosure to the defendants that will not be subject to the Unclassified Protective Order. Such materials will be designated by the government with a stamp, mark or other writing clearly indicating to the defendants that the materials provided are not subject to the Unclassified Protective Order. designated will be subject to the Unclassified Protective Order in this case and shall be treated as set forth therein.
